WILLIAM DEMSEY

"The Club" is extremely fortunate to have secured as its head chef, Mr. William Demsey, formerly of Switzerland, Paris, and Wiesbaden.

Mr. Demsey has had an impressive career as chef in some of the most outstanding European and American private clubs and hotels.

Born in Berne, Switzerland, he attended Ecole Culinaire School from age thirteen to seventeen and served his apprenticeship in hotels there.

Young Demsey continued his apprenticeship in Wiesbaden, Germany under the International Geneva Association for 29 months.

He was then quite fortunate in serving under the famous Emil Fabian, first at the Hotel Continental in Paris and then in an exclusive club in Santa Maria, Italy.

In 1935, William Demsey left Europe for West Virginia's famed Greenbriar Hotel where he rose from assistant sauce cook to Sous Chef.

He then served under another world famous chef, Henry Montet, for whom Demsey was Sous Chef at the Biltmore Hotel until 1942, at which time his career was interrupted by the armed forces.

Following his military service, Demsey served for sixteen years as chef for the Manger Hotel Corporation in numerous hotels in this chain in New York, Boston, Rochester, Hartford, and Buffalo.

At the height of his career, Demsey entered private club work at Elmcrest Country Club in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. He was chef at the exclusive Peoria Country Club when "The Club" was fortunate enough to secure his services.

The Demseys reside on Courtney Drive, and have two married daughters residing in Virginia.

Mr. Demsey speaks fluent German, French, Italian, and English.
